The Nexis Entity Search API allows you to quickly capture news mentions about customers, suppliers or other critical third parties—and document your findings—to support compliance with regulatory requirements and enable, smart data-driven decisions that protect your interests while empowering performance.

Build greater efficiency into your risk management workflow

Nexis Entity Search API leverages a familiar user interface, allowing you to easily create and test queries—whether you want to scan the entire news archive or narrow your focus to a particular time period, geographic region, or publication. Use the API to accelerate news-related due diligence on entities—either on an ad hoc basis or with scheduled calls—and generate summary PDF reports to share where they are needed, such as a CRM.

Adverse media screening with the Nexis Entity Search API and third-party automation technology can reduce the financial industry average of 20 minutes or more for a single manual keyword search to just 1-2 minutes. Reducing the time spent on repetitive, manual tasks frees up resources to focus on strategic decisions that help you protect and grow your business.

Conduct targeted search to yield relevant results

What does risk look like to you? Nexis Entity Search API offers pre-defined adverse media terms, allowing organizations to jump-start entity monitoring, but that's just the beginning. You can easily add or delete negative news terms to tailor the results according to your organization's risk appetite and concerns. Focus on terms specific to applicable regulations. Add in terms to enhance visibility into ESG factors. You can even search general news to capture a broad view of what's being reported about an entity or individual. You decide.
